In this critique I would like to critique my presentation titled “Self-Introduction”. This was given on April 27, 2019. The presentation offered reasons that I should introduce about myself, but it had several problems that I would like to mention. Overall, despite my preparations, I couldn’t make a good presentation. I believe several aspects should be improved in future presentations.

First, I said that my hobby is musical instruments. Specifically, I explained four types of musical instruments that I am good at. Second, I said about the seminar to which I belong. My seminar is the Morise seminar, which mainly studies sound. Finally, I told about my field of study. That is the difference between sounds of DTM (Desk Top Music)’s guitar and the sound of a real guitar.

I felt that my presentation materials and my oral presentation were not good. I was talking mostly while looking at the computer. I should have spoken while looking at the eyes of the audience. I remembered what I was saying to some extent but forgot to speak to the audience. In addition, I spoke too fast. I should have spoken more slowly especially when speaking about what was important. Finally, I fixed it now, but I had two slides that were exactly the same. I made a mistake when I copied a slide. I should have checked that in advance.

Overall, I could talk about myself and explain about my field of study. I should be careful to speak while looking at the audience from the next time. I should speak more slowly. In addition, I should check my presentation slides.
